

The Argument From Desire

Premise: we all have innate, universal desires—the desire for food, drink, life, health, sex, friendship, knowledge, etc.

Premise: Every one of the things that humans innately desire, actually exists.

Conclusion: If we have an innate, natural desire for God (or the things only God can supply) then God, too, is someone who exists.

Desire and Discontentment

The Argument From Desire

"If I find in myself a desire which no experience in this world can satisfy, the most probable explanation is that I was made for another world." — C.S. Lewis

Made For Another World

- "Our hearts are restless until they rest in you."
- Augustine

God's Christmas Gift

"We all once lived in the passions of our flesh, carrying out the desires of the body and the mind, and were by nature children of wrath, like the rest of mankind."
(Ephesians 2:3-9)

God's Christmas Gift

"But God, being rich in mercy, because of the great love with which he loved us, even when we were dead in our trespasses, made us alive together with Christ..."
(Ephesians 2:3-9)

God's Christmas Gift

"...and raised us up with him and seated us with him in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus."
(Ephesians 2:3-9)

God's Christmas Gift

"For by grace you have been saved through faith. And this is not your own doing; it is the gift of God, not a result of works, so that no one may boast." (Ephesians 2:8-9)

"Whom have I in heaven but you? And there is nothing on earth that I desire besides you."
(Psalm 73:25)

"Delight yourself in the LORD, and he will give you the desires of your heart. Commit your way to the LORD; trust in him, and he will act."
(Psalm 37:4-5)
